Subject: Chat with Caleb Pritchard
From: Caleb Pritchard <cpritchard2001@gmail.com>
To: barriticus@gmail.com

Caleb: Flaggot.
Caleb: http://www.nytimes.com/2011/05/22/world/europe/22russia.html?_r=1&hp
me: oh
me: good
Caleb: Asked about an episode last summer, when he shot a dart at the exposed back of a gray whale from a rubber dinghy, Mr. Putin drifted into Hemingway territory.

“All that surrounded me — the low sky, the stormy sea and, of course, the whales — was magnificent,” he said. “Besides, these elegant giants showed us a real performance, leaping out of the water in front of our boat.”
Caleb: On that occasion, a reporter asked Mr. Putin whether it was dangerous, and the prime minister responded, “Living in general is dangerous.”
me: wow
me: that one guy is a giant faggot
me: now I realize how often I overuse the term "giant faggot"
me: I really have nothing to call this person